MIAMS - mediation assessment meeting

Meeting with John Stebbing of Stephen Rimmer Solicitors

Learn about mediation, arbitration, collaborative law, and other routes through divorce, which is now a requirement before any legal action can be taken (and it's a very good idea to attend one anyway!)

Book your mediation assessment meeting with you and your ex-partner/husband/wife/Civil Partner: The recommendation is to attend separately first, so you both have a chance to ask questions and reflect from your own perspective. As a couple you access up to 1.5 hours in a combination of two individual meetings and then a joint meeting to consider your next steps.

Email Suzy@sosDivorceinaBox.com to book this MIAMS session inclusive to your Fixed-Price Divorce/Separation Preparation Pack.

Coffee & Mints

Going through a life change can open you up to searching for answers to the big questions. This is a good thing. My advice is to explore those teachings that avoid dogma, that encourage you to see others as connected to you and not as separate beings, and to learn to let go of guilt on all levels of your consciousness.

This experience of divorce/breakup can be a catalyst for amazing positive change - if you choose to allow that to happen. And you now have plenty of support to help you.
